(b) Conditionalities laid down for bidders of Air India and Indian Airlines are as follows:—

The bidder could get disqualified if it is discovered at any time that the bidder is the subject matter of winding up/ insolvency or other proceedings of a similar nature.

- Strategic Partner would need to meet the security requirements of the country as determined by Government of India. The bidder would also get disqualified if at any time it is discovered or determined by Government of India that the bidder is a person who constitutes a threat to the security requirements of the country or has any conflict of interest with Air India or its affiliates.

- The bidder could also get disqualified if the Government of India is not satisfied with the source of funds/ownership structure of the bidder.
- In the case of Indian Airlines, an additional condition was that the air transport carriers in India were not permitted to participate in the sale.

In the case of Air India, Government has decided to obtain in addition valuation reports from two independent valuers, other than the global advisors.
